

Contributors to this number

Alba Zaluar studied for her master's degree in Social Anthropology first at Manchester University and then at the National Museum, Federal University of Rio de Janeiro, and her doctorate at the University of São Paulo. She is presently full professor at the State University of Rio de Janeiro where she is also visiting professor at the Institute for Social and Political Studies (IESP). She is the author of many books and articles on crime, violence and criminal justice with special reference to the favelas of Rio de Janeiro.

Email: amz84@globo.com

Clarice Ehlers Peixoto read for her doctorate in Visual and Social Anthropology at the École des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales. She is presently professor of anthropology at the State University of Rio de Janeiro. Her research interests include ageing, family and visual anthropology.

Email: cpeixoto@uerj.br

Cristina Pompa is professor of Anthropology at the Federal University of São Paulo. She obtained her doctorate in Social Sciences from the University of Campinas (2001). Her interests include Anthropology and History of Religion, History of Indians in Brazil. She is the author of Religião como Tradução. Misionários, Tupi e Tapuia no Brasil Colonial.

Email: pompa@unifesp.br

Daniela Cordovil received her MA and PhD in Social Anthropology from the University of Brasília. She was the winner of the Anthropology and Human Rights 2 award in the MA category, with the article "Antropologia e Direitos Humanos no Brasil". She is Assistant Professor at the State University of Pará, in the Graduate Program in Religious Science (Belém, Brazil). Her main research topics are afro-Brazilian religion, politics and gender relations in the Amazon.

Email: daniela.cordovil@gmail.com

Emerson Giumbelli, with a doctorate in Social Anthropology from the National Museum, Federal University of Rio de Janeiro is Professor in the Department of Anthropology and of the Graduate Program in Social Anthropology, Federal University of Rio Grande do Sul. He has written extensively on his research into religiosity.

Email: emerson.giumbelli@yahoo.com.br

Fabio Mura, who has an MA and PhD in Social Anthropology from the National Museum, Federal University of Rio de Janeiro, is currently on the anthropology faculty of the Federal University of Paraíba. His research focuses on the Kaiowa and Nandéva indigenous peoples of Mato Grosso do Sul and the Tabajara of Paraíba.

Email: fabiomura64@gmail.com

Fabrcio Solagna is working on his Master's degree in Sociology at the Federal University of Rio Grande do Sul (UFRGS). He is a member of the Associação Software Livre.Org (ASL – www.asl.org.br) and organizer of the International Forum of Free Software (FISL – www.fisl.org). He coordinates the Digital Office of the Government of the State of Rio Grande do Sul (www.gabinete-digital.rs.gov.br) and is a member of the National Youth Council in the area of Information Technologies.

Email: magicofuxu@gmail.com

Joana Bahia is Associate Professor at the State University of Rio de Janeiro and Associate Researcher at the Interdisciplinary Center for Migration Studies (NIEM) at the Rio de Janeiro Institute for Urban Research and Planning (IPPUR / UFRJ).

Email: joana.bahia@gmail.com

Laura Lowenkron has a doctorate in anthropology from the National Museum of the Federal University of Rio de Janeiro. She holds a research position at the Nucleus for the Study of Gender, Pagu, at the State University of Campinas. She is currently researching on sexual violence, pedophilia, and the trafficking of persons, having published widely on these subjects.

E-mail: lauralowenkron@uol.com.br

Leticia Ferreira has a doctorate in anthropology from the National Museum of the Federal University of Rio de Janeiro. She is on the faculty of the School of Social Sciences of the Getúlio Vargas Foundation. She researches on the disappearance of persons, bureaucracy and documents, and human rights.
E-mail: leticia.ferreira@fgv.br

Lorenzo Macagno is Professor of Anthropology at the Federal University of Paraná, Brazil. He has been conducting fieldwork in Mozambique since 1996. His main research interests focus on the Portuguese colonial imaginary and its consequences, transnational identities, multiculturalism, and diasporas in the Lusophone world. He is the author of Outros muçulmanos. Islão e narrativas coloniais (2006), Lisbon, Imprensa de Ciências Sociais.
Email: lorenzomacagno@hotmail.com

Marcia Contins, who has a doctorate in Communication and Culture from the Federal University of Rio de Janeiro (UFRJ) is professor of Anthropology at the Graduate Program of Social Science (PPCIS) at State University of Rio de Janeiro (UERJ). She is the author of many articles and books on religion and the Brazilian Black movement.
Email: mcontins@terra.com.br

Marcos Silva da Silveira, who has a masters and doctorate in Social Anthropology from the University of Brasília, is Associate Professor in the Department of Anthropology at the Federal University of Paraná. He writes about religious experience and social theory.
Email: ssilveira@ufpr.br

Marcus Cardoso has a doctorate in Anthropology from the University of Brasília, where he is now a member of the faculty with a research scholarship from the National Research Council (CNPq). He is also a member of the Institute for Comparative Studies of Institutional Conflict Management (INCT- InEAC). He conducts research on crime and policing in favelas.
Email: marcusacardoso@gmail.com

Misia Lins Reesink has a doctorate in Social Anthropology and Ethnology from the École des Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales de Paris, and a master's degree in Anthropology from the Federal University of Pernambuco. She is presently on the faculty of the Department of Anthropology and Museum Studies at that university, where she is teaching and conducting studies on the death and religion, having published a number of articles on those topics. Email: emreesink@gmail.com.br

Ondina Fachel Leal, who has a doctorate in Anthropology from the University of California, Berkeley and spent a post doctorate period at Harvard Medical School is full professor in the Department of Anthropology of the Federal University of Rio Grande do Sul (UFRGS). She coordinated the Ford Foundation's Program in Sexuality and Reproductive Health in its Brazil office. She has published widely in the field of sexuality, health and intellectual property. Email: ofachelleal@gmail.com

Paula Montero is professor of anthropology at the University of São Paulo and President of the Brazilian Center for Analysis and Planning (CEBREAP). She has researched and written extensively on religion, especially Roman Catholicism, and culture. Email: pmontero@usp.br

Rebeca Hennemann Vergara de Souza who has a master's degree in Sociology from the Federal University of Rio Grande do Sul, teaches Anthropology at the State University of Piauí (UESPI). Email: sr.keuner@gmail.com

Ruy Llera Blanes is a Spanish anthropologist currently working at the University of Bergen (UiB), Norway, as a Postdoctoral Researcher and Associated Researcher at the Institute of Social Sciences of the University of Lisbon (ICS-UL), Portugal, where he received his PhD. He is also co-Editor of the journal Advances in Research: Religion and Society, edited by Berghahn, and Associate Editor of the journal HAU – Journal of Ethnographic Theory. Email: ruy.blanes@gmail.com

Vagner Gonçalves da Silva teaches in the Anthropology Department of the University of São Paulo, where he received his master's and doctor's degrees in Social Anthropology. He specializes in research on religion in relation to Brazilians of African descent: Candomblé, Umbanda, Neopentecostalism, and religious intolerance. He is also interested in Afro-Brazilian art and ethnographical representation (fieldwork and hypermedia ethnography). He is the coordinator of the Study Center for Contemporary Religiosity and Black Culture (CERNe).

Email: vagnergo@usp.br